New Exhibits

A Period of Time: Patrick Luber 2010-2025

Forsberg Riverside Galleries

On view February 25 - June 15, 2025

Gallery Talk & Reception

Friday, March 14, 5:30 - 7:30pm

Patrick Luber's relief sculptures exercising a metaphoric language constructed from the detritus of popular culture, recycled materials, and obsessive production practices, is a sincere, quirky, and sometimes humorous vision about faith and culture ranging from the theological to the political and scientific within the American experiment. Luber taught sculpture at the University of North Dakota from 1990-2022 and now resides in West Des Moines.

2024 Waterloo All-School Exhibition

Law-Reddington Galleries

On view April 1-27, 2025

Opening Reception

Thursday, April 3, 4:00pm

This exhibition is a cooperative program of the Waterloo Center for the Arts and Waterloo public and parochial schools presenting art in a wide range of media, created by students in grades K-12. Join us for an opening reception celebrating these young artists on April 3 at 4:00pm. Admission is free.

Michael Broshar

Longfellow-Hurlbut Concourse Gallery

On view beginning April 15, 2025

Painter, WCA instructor and former architect Michael Broshar presents over a decade of artworks from his studio and plein air practice. This self-titled exhibition features paintings in watercolor, gouache, and oil.

Fleuve-Revolution of Freedom & Flow

Law-Reddington Galleries

On view beginning May 16, 2025

WCA's own Director Chawne Paige partners with Grinnell College Museum of Art's Dr. Petrouchka Moise to co-curate an exhibition featuring Jacob Lawrence's The Life of Touissant Louverture, a series of 15 screenprints dedicated to the life of the leader of the Haitian Revolution. These stunning and rarely shown works of art are paired with objects from the WCA Haitian Art Collection.

Leaving Soon

Art Instructors Showcase

Langlas Loft Galleries

Through February 2, 2025

Featuring the work of 20 local artists-instructors including the late Peggy Novak, a batik instructor, and the late Gail Gavlock, a stained glass instructor. This exhibition ranges from basketry to drawing, fused glass to ceramics as well as watercolor, fiber art, jewelry, and printmaking.

Reverberations

Forsberg Riverside Galleries

Through February 9, 2025

This exhibition is dedicated to Ute Stebich's ongoing influence on the expansion and unique character of the art collection at the Waterloo Center for the Arts. Thematically, the exhibit pivots on a major abstract painting by Brazilian artist and landscape architect Roberto Burle Marx and a print portfolio by Mexican Zapotec artist and activist Francisco Benjamín López Toledo. This presentation is a companion to the International Folk Art Collection exhibit in the Law-Reddington Gallery.

Michael Broshar, Blackjack Farm - Galena, IL, oil on panel

Optical Vertigo: Drawings & Collage by Jeffrey Webb

Helen Block & Louise Loomis
Concourse Gallery

Through March 9, 2025

Exuberant, organic, sometimes swirling, shapes and intricate patterns are imaginatively combined with characters and quotes from contemporary culture and the artist's life and mind.

Stitchings by Ute Stebich

Law-Reddington Galleries

Through March 16, 2025

These needle point works by artist, collector, gallerist, curator and art historian Ute Stebich are works in cross stitch. The intuitive, geometric, cross-stitched canvases are inspired by colors and shapes the artist encounters in familiar and new surroundings and internationally.

Selections from the International Folk Art Collection

Law-Reddington Galleries

Through March 16, 2025

Over the years, Ute Stebich and her family have shared their expertise and have helped the Waterloo Center for the Arts to make connections with folk artists in the United States and internationally. These introductions led to numerous additions to the International Folk Art Collection, showcased in this exhibition.

Buffy Quegg

Watkins Grand Foyer & Hurlbut Concourse

Through April 6, 2025

Painter Buffy Quegg's work process is reflexive. Organic and architectural forms emerge and relationships are developed as each composition progresses. Her recent works use a reduced palette. They do not reference the external world literally but rely on a creativity that considers each new element as the painting changes and evolves. Quegg invites the visitor to activate their own associations and references as they view the work.

Platters & Vessels by Jim Kerns

Longfellow Concourse Gallery

Through April 6, 2025

Ceramist Jim Kerns states, "For decades my work has been targeted to show the joy of clay. I put a lot of thought into making work that was appealing. Easy to see. This show attempts to turn that on its head. So many issues socially, environmentally, & politically that we do not seem to have the will to address. With this show I attempt to live in the adage that art should comfort the disturbed and disturb the comfortable."

Outreach

Light Within Ourselves: Haitian Art in Iowa

Des Moines Art Center, Des Moines, IA

April 18-September 7, 2025

Organized in partnership with the Des Moines Art Center. This exhibition showcases a selection of the rich holdings of the Haitian art in the WCA's collection, and explores the vibrant diversity of Haitian artwork, featuring paintings, metalwork, ritual objects, and drapos (beaded and sequined banners).

MEET THE INSTRUCTORS

Richard (Dick) Hill

Wheel Throwing

After taking a handful of classes at the Waterloo Center for the Arts, Dick Hill became a very active volunteer and ceramics instructor here at the WCA. In addition to throwing pots, reclaiming clay, and being a gifted story teller, he is a proud retired John Deere and railroad employee.

Rodney Green

Wheel Throwing

Rodney Green has lived in Iowa his whole life, and is a proud John Deere retiree. His interest in art started at an early age when he began playing a variety of musical instruments. Encouraged by his friend Dick Hill, he began taking pottery classes eight years ago and now co-instructs Wheel Throwing with Dick and volunteers several hours a week to keep the ceramics room a clean and happy place.

Sue Kuennen

Basketry & Zen Rocks

Sue is a retired Mayo Clinic nurse who owns and manages her 320-acre farm in Fayette County and an artisan who weaves award winning baskets. You can find her artwork at state/local fairs and art festivals throughout the state. She resides in her 1911 Sears and Roebuck catalog ordered home on her farm. In her free time, she works on restoring her home and making the old summer kitchen into her basket weaving studio. Sue also has several gardens, takes care of a few bee colonies and hosts educational farm, prairie and garden tours.
